Orpheus, the 21st century feature at Boughton

The Montagu Music Collection

The Montagu Music Collection is an extraordinary compilation of manuscript and printed music brought together by the descendents of the Dukes of Montagu. It represents a broad chronological sweep from 16th Century Masses to Handel operas, keyboard sonatas to French ballets, Scottish dances to English operas unperformed since their first runs in the West End.

Pivotal to the Collection is Lady Elizabeth (1743-1827), the Montagu heiress who became The Duchess of Buccleuch. She continued the musical patronage began by her grandfather, John, 2nd Duke of Montagu, a patron and friend of Handel.

The present Duke and Duchess of Buccleuch wish to share this remarkable archive, making it accessible through academic study and a continuing series of concerts, exhibitions and other events centred on Boughton.

The Great Hall at Boughton

Using rare choral works from the Montagu Music Collection, VOCE CHAMBER CHOIR, the group of diverse and dynamic young singers directed by Suzi Digby OBE, will lead the audience on a stimulating musical promenade through three very different settings.

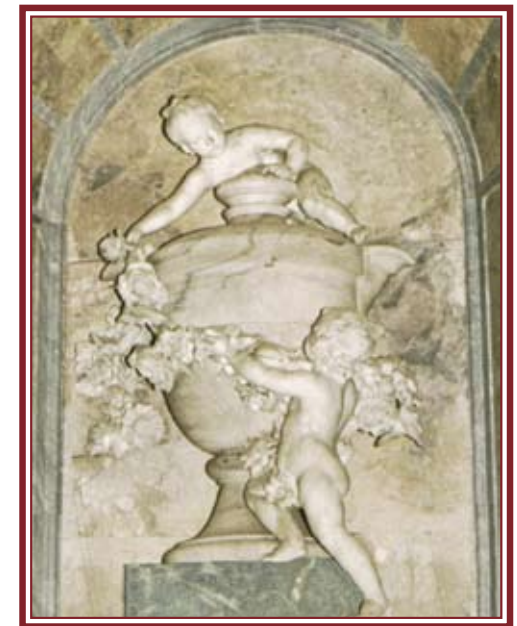

Starting with church music by Pergolesi, Byrd and Tallis at Warkton Church, with its outstanding group of 18th century monuments, we then proceed to Orpheus, the new 21st Century landform in Boughton's historic parkland for a picnic lunch. There we will be accompanied by the glories of English pastoral madrigals. The promenade will culminate with music from the Renaissance to the 21st century in the magnificent Great Hall of Boughton House.

Expect a unique and fresh experience with top-quality music making in sublime surroundings.

Progress on foot - weather permitting - or by car (40 minutes total walking)
